Chapter 2: Prose

Welcome to AnithUncommon's Sample Resources!

We are assuming you are reading this as a student. So What will YOU Expect From This Sample?

In Literature Chapter 2.1

This sample will be divided into three parts: Introduction to Samples (this part), Lesson Objectives (What is Expected From Students), and most crucially, Syllabus Contents.

Note that the 'Syllabus Content' does NOT stand as a complete syllabus itself; rather, it is a tight compilation of notes gathered by Ishraq to create a comprehensive sample for students.

Lesson Objectives:

At the end of the lesson, students should be able to...

- Analyze how characters are presented and developed
Focus on dialogue, actions, and narrative voice.
- Develop personal interpretations supported by the text
Form your own idea, but remember you will always need to support your ideas using quotes or evidence.
- Explore different possible interpretations

Reflective Questions to Consider:

Prose writers carefully shape their narratives through choices of language, structure, and perspective. As a result, readers are encouraged to read between the lines, considering not just what is said, but how it is presented.

Below are the following core questions you will face as we explore this chapter:

- If you could change one decision made by a character, what would it be?
- What question would you ask the writer about this text?
- What is the most important idea you take away from this chapter?

Unit 2: Prose

Tip!

- Think about why the writer includes a specific detail, it is always there for a reason, such as revealing character or theme. Then expand by explaining what it suggests and why it matters to the reader.

Activities in Class:

- Quizzes
- Language Hunt

2.1 The Gold Watch

This is a short story by Mulk Raj Anand that explores the psychological impact of retirement and the loss of identity that comes with it. It follows a man who receives a gold watch as a retirement gift, symbolizing both appreciation and finality.

Themes:

- Loss of identity
- Social status and self-worth

Symbolism:

- What does the gold watch symbolize?

It symbolizes both honor and loss, while it is presented as a reward, it actually marks the man's removal from active life, highlighting how society discards individuals after their "usefulness" ends. Time represents inevitability and the passing of one's value in society.

Mentor's Notes

Anand uses simple narration with deep emotional undertones, so students should analyse how internal feelings are revealed subtly.

2.2 The Man Who Walked on the Moon

This is a short story by J.G. Ballard that explores imagination, illusion, and the contrast between reality and belief through a man who claims to have walked on the moon.

Themes:

- Reality vs illusion

Mentor's Notes

Ballard leaves room for interpretation which allows reader's to have/create different meanings.

- Power of imagination Symbolism - What does the moon symbolize? It represents human aspiration and mystery, but also shows how people can manipulate truth, raising questions about what we choose to believe.
2.3 Showing the Flag This is a short story by Jane Gardam that explores family relationships, embarrassment, and a child's perception of a parent. Themes: - Embarrassment and pride - Emotional growth Symbolism: -What does "showing the flag" symbolize? It symbolizes the pressure to maintain appearances, even when reality is uncomfortable or embarrassing.	Mentor's Notes Focus on: The child's perspective The tone shifts between humour and discomfort How feelings about the mother evolve
2.4 Fluke This is a short story by Romesh Gunesekera that explores chance, survival, and the unpredictability of life through a fishing experience. Themes: - Human vulnerability - Luck vs control Symbolism: - What does the fluke symbolize? It represents how life is governed by chance, showing that	Mentor's Notes Focus on: The relationship between humans and nature The tone (tense, reflective) The idea of chance vs skill outcomes are often beyond human control. The sea represents danger, uncertainty, and life's instability.

2.5 The Woman's Rose This is a short story by Olive Schreiner that explores sacrifice, love, and selflessness through the story of a woman who gives up something precious. Themes: - Gender roles - Value of selflessness Symbolism: The act of giving represents emotional strength and selflessness and the rose symbolizes love and sacrifice, showing how something beautiful can be given up for the sake of others.	Mentor's Notes Schreiner's writing is allegorical, so students should look beyond the literal story.
